Introduction

Recently, we released a series of articles called The Divine Mind. In those articles, we tried to look at things from a larger perspective. This is all overly exciting, except when we need to convey certain messages where using linear time is essential to discuss them. In this article, we need to bring it down a few notches for this very reason. So, let us start with going back to the Wes Penre Papers (WPP) once more and the way they were presented, so I can expand on and clarify some concepts I expressed back then.

Over the last decades, much has been said and predicted about Nibiru, which Zechariah Sitchin called The Twelfth Planet. We have heard a lot of horror stories that there will be an impact, where Nibiru will hit the Earth and most living things on the planet will perish. Some claim they have seen Nibiru in the sky since at least the 1980s, but there has been no impact, and nothing else catastrophic has happened due to this supposed incoming celestial body. I'm not saying that incoming objects cannot be a threat, or that there are no incoming objects at all that can potentially hit us, of course.

The entire Nibiru narrative is a misnomer, however, as I see it. What I learned when I researched for the WPP was that Nibiru was the Queen of Orion's "spaceship." I also learned that the original Garden of Edin was inside that planet/spaceship. I also discussed the hollowed-out asteroids and planetoids that the Alien Invader Force (AIF) used and still allegedly use as their spaceships. Thus, they mimicked the Queen's original hollowed-out craft, Nibiru.

If we try to connect the dots from what I have learned and hypothesized thus far, I will argue that Nibiru is in fact planet Earth, and the original Garden of Edin was the version of Earth that was manifested between the 7th and 8th Heavens, as told in the Gnostic texts. It was a higher dimensional version of our current Earth.

In the WPP, I used the term Namlu'u to describe the antediluvian (pre-Flood) species of humans, who lived on Earth approximately 13,000 years ago, and further back. I borrowed the word Namlu'u from the French writer and researcher, Anton Parks, but a better name to use would be Aryans, i.e., the human soul group, originating in Aryan/Orion. In this article, I will use the term Aryans for this particular human species. The Aryans were, as explained in the WPP, much taller and slimmer than today's more sturdy humans. They had black skin and red hair, from what I have learned.

There are still some pieces missing in my research regarding the Aryans, but at least, we can hopefully connect a few dots. If what I originally learned is correct, we humans started out as a species living inside Nibiru, which was the original Garden of Eden—a Paradise where "the lion slept with the lamb," symbolically speaking. There were no wars or division. The early Aryans were androgynous and "children of Nature." In the Gnostic texts, we learn that the human soul group descended through the Kenoma/Matrix several times to experience Sophia's shadow side and bring Light into the Darkness, which was also discussed in the Gnostic Musings Series on our blog. Up to a certain point, we lived underground, but later, when we experienced a denser reality, we started living on the surface.

When I wrote the WPP, I had some problem with timelines. I understand that linear time is an earthly construct, but to be comprehensive, we need to use time—and especially linear time—as a reference point in articles like this. By the same token, we need to think multidimensionally because time and space are not what we think they are. When we discuss different versions of Earth, I don't see those as being different planets located in different parts of a space continuum. It's the same planet, existing simultaneously in all dimensions and subdimensions. In addition, each dimension consists of a vast number of densities, which determine the solidity of an object. Therefore, Tiamat was a later version of Nibiru, and when I look at the information I have, it seems as if we lived on the surface of Tiamat—at least most of us.

So, just to be clear: the original Earth was Sophia's "spaceship," called Nibiru in the 7th/8th Heavens. Tiamat was Nibiru in a lower dimension, and Earth is Tiamat and Nibiru in an even lower dimension.

At one point in time, we are told that Sophia gave celestial bodies in the solar system to the Archons—we call these celestial bodies planets. They were, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn (Sabaoth's planet originally), the sun as we know it, and the moon. These are what ancient texts, including the Gnostic texts, call the Seven Heavens, where the Archons mainly dwell, although they also have access to some of the star constellations "out there" in the Milky Way. Tiamat, however, was Sophia's planet, where the Human Experiment was taking place. For some reason, the Archons thought that the entire solar system belonged to them, so they were shocked when they noticed that Tiamat was populated with humans, and they invaded the planet, which was destroyed in the process, as discussed in the WPP, Level 2 and Level 4.

This is where it gets tricky because we are used to thinking in linear time the way time works here on Earth, while "out there" things are considered more inter- and multidimensional—it's a matter of perspective. This is the reason why the WPP and the Gnostic texts coincide in so many ways, and in other ways they seem not to—at least at the first glance. Still, they do coincide, in my opinion—they tell the same stories, conveyed from different perspectives. This can be exceedingly difficult to wrap one's head around, but it can be done by expanding and changing one's perspective.

In the War of the Titans (Greek mythology), the invaders conquered Tiamat, and Zoë Sophia and her Helpers the Vulcans/Vegans were chased off, and many Vulcans and Aryans succumbed. Many Aryans and some Vulcans were captured and incarcerated by the invaders, and they are supposedly still “chained” somewhere inside Earth. Mythology tells us (in the Babylonian Creation Story, for example) that the invaders then took a chunk of Tiamat and created the current Earth. This could be literal, but it could also be metaphorical, making the Titan War the end of an epoch with a new beginning—the latter being lower in density and dimension. We descended to a lower dimensional version of the planet, which we call Earth.

The Gnostic texts are talking about the Divine bloodline during the most recent Atlantis (the antediluvian time), and I believe that this could be the surviving Aryans who lived side by side with homo sapiens. This had nothing to do with souls and spirited humans—both the Aryan race and homo sapiens were souled and had potential access to Spirit (instead, we are talking about physical bloodlines). It is interesting that ancient texts tell us there were giants roaming the Earth in these days. These giants have been denounced in mythology, religions, and alternative history, and maybe there is a reason for that:

When I connect the dots, I come to my personal insight (built on earlier and new research) that at least some (if not all) of the giants of old were the surviving Aryans. Depending on which ancient text we read, we see that not all giants were evil—it was a mix. Some were benevolent, others warlike, and some were even cannibals. According to the Bible and other older texts, the Titans (the original Divine “Gods/Goddesses”) saw the destruction that took place on Earth and instigated the Flood—a Consummation of an Age.

What I learned from the Gnostic texts was that some of the Aryans turned against Mother Goddess and became adversaries (the story about Noah and the Ark). This fits quite “nicely” with the mythological giants. I think both homo sapiens and the Aryans had a difficult time adjusting to the lower frequency of the antediluvian times, compared to the earlier versions of Earth, i.e., Tiamat and Nibiru. Wars and conflicts broke out, and everything escalated.

When the Flood eventually swept over the planet, many Aryans/giants died, while others fled underground and survived in conjunction with other species, such as the yeti that people claim to encounter even in today's world, coming out from caves. Some of the giants were what we would call evil, but not all of them—again, there was a mix, just like with everything else.

After the Flood, Yaldabaoth (the masculine force) and an aspect of Sophia (the feminine force in this part of the Kenoma), genetically manipulated the antediluvian Cro-Magnon and homo sapiens, which then became homo sapiens sapiens—today's humans. A few other species survived as well, such as the already mentioned yeti and several giants. There are even records of Europeans coming to the Americas encountering giants, and that was only a few centuries ago. Interesting also that the skeletons with elongated skulls found in Peru, for example, were giants and had red hair. However, giant skeletons have been found all over the world, but most of them have been hidden and locked away by institutions, such as the Smithsonian Institution.

Also, people with Rh-negative blood type supposedly have genes going back to the antediluvian Aryan race<sup>1</sup>. This goes for the Basques, the Irish and the Scottish people as well—many of them being redheads.

In the next article, we will discuss Admiral Byrd, Nazi Germany, and others, who have allegedly been to the Inner Earth, and we will talk about the beings they met there. In the upcoming article, we will also list some interesting sources on these subjects.
